Dear Mr. McDonough,

Thank you again for contacting Everglades National Park. We appreciate your taking the time to provide feedback on our park's social media.

Since receiving your emails last week, we have replaced the previous disclosure on Everglades National Park's Facebook page with that found on the National Park Service's Facebook page. We additionally added a "Privacy" section on this Facebook page which clarifies how information may be stored, and limitations on privacy in relation to reactions and posts on the park's social media, consistent with federal regulations governing these matters. We also applied corresponding updates to the Dry Tortugas National Park Facebook page.

Additionally, we identified a comment on the Everglades National Park Facebook page from a member of the public which was hidden by park staff shortly after it was posted. Given its hiding was inconsistent with NPS and park policy, the comment was unhidden, and the responsible staff member was provided additional training.

We hope this information is helpful to you, and ask you kindly clarify in writing whether you have withdrawn or wish to withdraw your FOIA request received last week in relation to these matters.

Sincerely,

Denese Canedo
